About GMO Free PA

GMO Free PA is a non-profit organization whose mission is to publicize the newest research and information regarding the risks of genetically engineered foods, assist and educate consumers in selecting vendors and products that are GMO-free, and advocate for mandatory labeling of genetically engineered foods. If you enjoy this directory, please become a GMO Free PA member through our web site at gmofreepa.org.

DISCLAIMER

This directory includes information that was collected through direct conversation with farmers and through internet research. It contains the most accurate information that we were able to collect about each farm. If you notice any mistakes or incorrect information, please contact us at lancastercounty@gmofreepa.org and we will research the issue to improve the quality of the directory. GMO Free PA does not certify the GMO-free, chemical-free or organic status of farms and therefore the information in this directory relies on the statements provided by the farmers themselves.

Everyone is encouraged to distribute copies of this directory, both electronically and in print, as long as the entire directory is shared without making any modifications and the GMO Free PA name is retained.

Fairview Fruit Farm strives to use natural farming methods that benefit the health of our customers, our livestock and the land on which we live. We offer grass fed beef, free-range poultry, and pasture-raised pork, as well as fresh produce and numerous other products.

Our calves and steer are strictly grass fed and are not given any grains. Our veal calves have free choice of their own mother's milk and grass, which does lead to a redder meat than store bought veal (they are not given access to any grass). Meats from our grass fed cows are very nutritious and have far more vitamins, minerals and healthy fats than meats from grain fed cattle.

Our poultry comes from chickens that have free access to pasture, fresh water and fresh air. They are not confined to a chicken house or cages or fed antibiotics. They roam freely around the pasture surrounding our portable chicken coop where they roost at night.

Our pigs are raised on pasture just like our other animals. They freely roam our orchard where they eat fallen fruits, as well as food scraps that we provide them. Our bacon and hams are nitrate free. Since 2009, the farm began the transition to natural farming methods and minimize our use of chemicals. We became interested in natural farming through reading some books written by Joel Salatin. We do our best to keep our prices reasonable, so that our customers can afford the nutritious, wholesome food that natural farming provides.

Once you get to the farm, locate the small store on the lower level. There is another unrelated large shop on the upper level.

Dove Song Dairy is an old-fashioned family farm located in the rolling hills of Berks County, Pennsylvania. Our farm, which dates back to the colonial era, uses a modern-day milking facility we designed to ensure quality conditions for our milk and comfort for our animals. Our 200 goats, made up of mostly Alpines and LaManchas are individually named and enjoyed by friends and family alike.

We believe in a natural approach to animal husbandry. Our farm is organic (not certified) and sustainable. We never use pesticides, herbicides, chemical fertilizers or sludge on our fields. That way we can be sure the soil, the wildlife and our livestock aren't absorbing anything that could be harmful or toxic.

Our dairy goats, chickens and other livestock are pastured year-round and we feed them all our own special ration made from our own organically grown barley, spelt and sunflower seeds. We add kelp, flaxseed and minerals to help keep them healthy. We never feed any of our animals corn or soy, or give them antibiotics or added hormones.

At Wyebrook Farm, we provide an alternative to the industrial food supply. By creating a diverse polyculture on our farm, we produce the healthiest animals and best food without the use of artificial fertilizers, pesticides, herbicides, hormones or antibiotics. We raise 100% grass fed beef. They graze on pasture for 9-10 months of the year using rotational grazing techniques. They spend 2-3 months in an open sided barn and are fed only hay.

Our pigs live 100% of the time in wooded areas and their feed consists of what they find in the woods along with some organic but mostly non-certified, non-GMO grains and roasted soybeans. The sheep are 100% grass fed and graze with the cow herd. The goats occupy the same area as the pigs and eat brush along with a little of the grain provided for the pigs.

Our laying hens and broilers spend 100% of their time on pasture. We raise broilers on pasture from March until October only. The laying hens stay out all year. All poultry eat non-certified but non-GMO grains.

We believe that the only way to guarantee that the food you eat is healthy, safe and nutritious is to know the farmer who produced it. We sell the products of the farm from a historic barn on the farm so that our customers can see our animals and our farming practices. We encourage you to tour the farm and ask us questions.

By purchasing food from Wyebrook Farm, you support the local community and ensure that this part of Chester County retains the agricultural character that has made it one of the most productive and beautiful places in America.

Hidden Spring Farm is a family run operation, in Lebanon County, PA, specializing in 100% grass fed beef and pastured poultry. We also produce sweet corn and pumpkins during the growing season.

Our beef herd consists of angus/limousin cattle which are raised on grass/legume pastures here at the farm, from birth to finish. The herd is rotationally grazed, given a new paddock at least once daily and offered free choice kelp and salt. At no time do our cattle receive any grain or growth hormones of any kind. During the winter months they are fed hay and balelage, which we raise on our farm.

Our chickens are cornish cross breed. Their diet consists of supplemental grains, plenty of fresh green grass, and any insects they can find. They're allowed to express their natural pecking and scratching instincts in the open-floor housing units we keep them in. No hormones or growth stimulates are given at any time. The portable housing units are moved once a day to ensure fresh forage and a clean environment for the birds.

Beef and chicken must be preordered and picked up at the farm. Chickens can be ordered live or dressed. Beef can be ordered in eighths, quarters, halves, or whole animals. It is processed in a USDA inspected facility and is dry aged for 14 days. This ensures tenderness and enhances flavor. Please call for pricing and availability.

Our cattle live, graze, breed and grow to maturity on clean pasture with good hay and haylage we grow on the farm, clean fresh water, and just a little minerals and salt for health. They enjoy wooded edges in the pasture for shelter from the heat and cold. They remain in their herd and are gentle, very lean and flavorful.

We use only USDA inspected butchers (but not certified organic butchers since none are available here). Our grass-fed beef is available locally at the Palmyra Real Food Emporium in Palmyra, Lebanon County, PA, or in bulk by contacting us by email.
